

PSA AMH Aged Care Pharmacist of the Year Award

The aim of this annual award is to recognise the outstanding contribution by a pharmacist to the practice of aged care pharmacy.

Since the introduction of specialised remuneration services into Australian Pharmacy Practice with medication reviews in aged care facilities in 1997 pharmacists have played an increasingly important role in aged care. This award aims to recognise those pharmacists who have adopted and implemented outstanding services to residential care facilities and their residents.

All credentialed pharmacists are encouraged to reflect on the work of their friends and colleagues working as credentialed pharmacists in the aged care space and to consider nominating them for this prestigious award.

Do you know an aged care pharmacist providing exceptional services? They might be working in an embedded aged care role, providing medication reviews, quality use of medicines services, or a combination of these. Their work will be making a difference to the overall health care of our older Australians.

If you know a deserving aged care pharmacist, forward your nomination for the inaugural PSA AMH Aged Care Pharmacist of the Year Award. This award would provide them with the opportunity to travel to attend a conference or seminar of their choice which has relevance to their practice.
